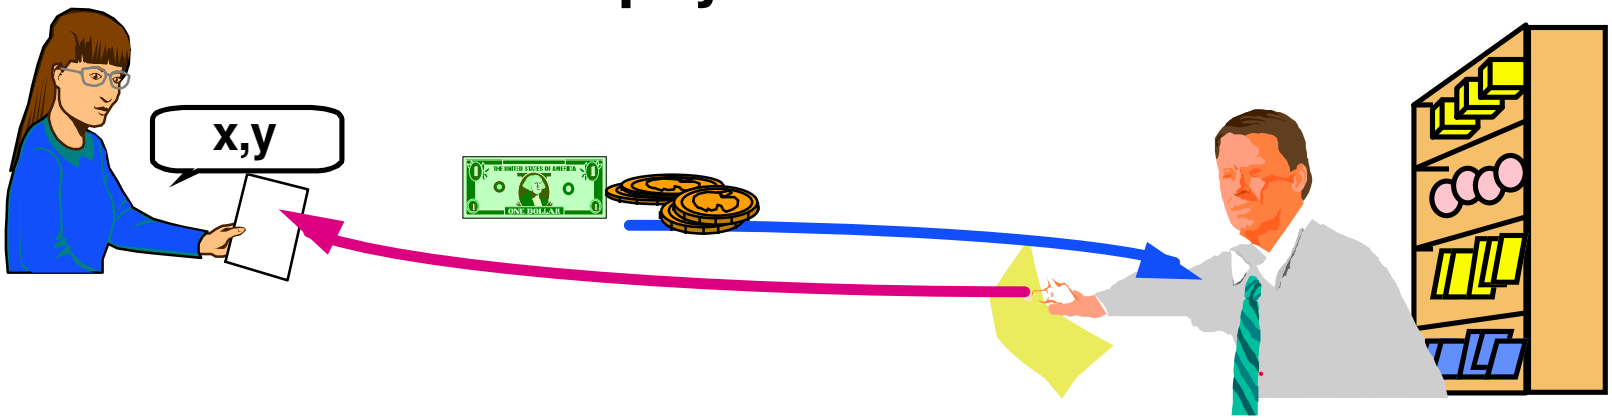
Moving to a Service Paradigm

- Server is an independent contractor, defines service
- Client selects service, and specific parameters
- Server's success depends on value provided
- Some form of payment received for services



Databases are a current example in Software