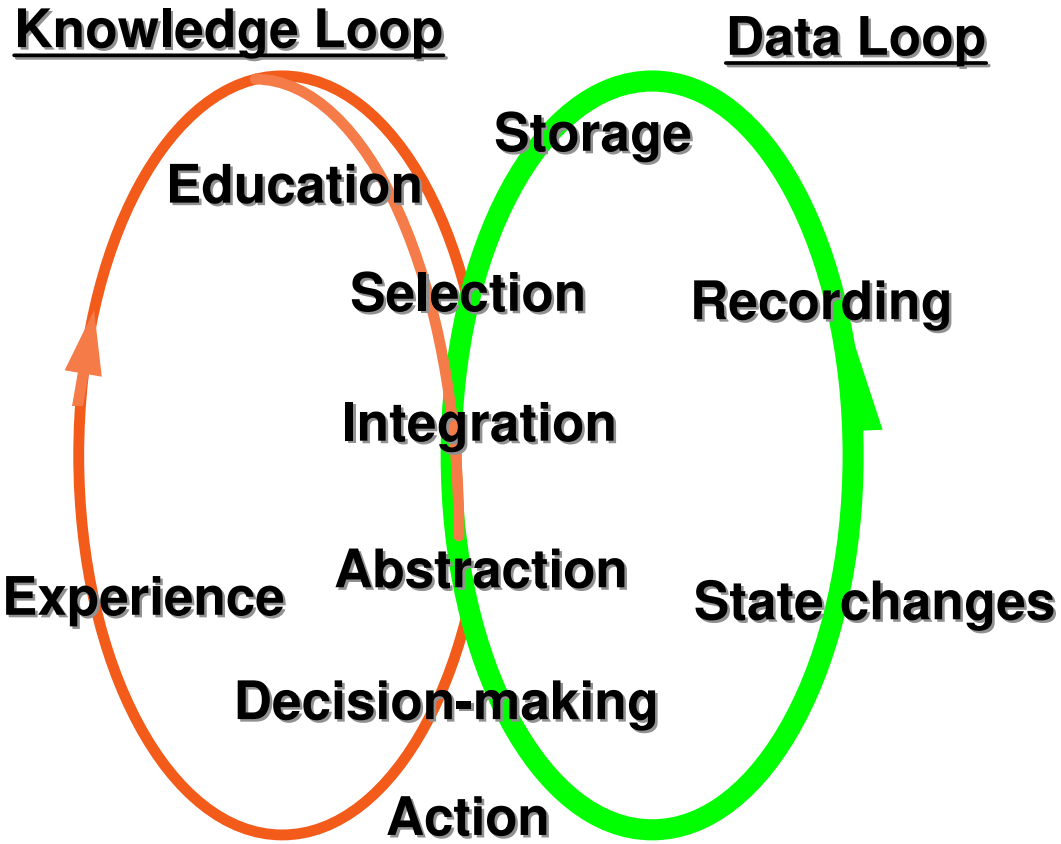
Data and Knowledge



Information is created at the confluence of data -- the state

&

knowledge -- the ability to select and project the state into the future